FACULTY

William J. Kinnard, Jr., Ph. D., Dean

DEAN'S MESSAGE

A recent survey asked our alumni to comment on what changes should take place in pharmacy education. The replies ranged from very supportive praise to frustrated denunciations of our program. Some called for less clinical education while others called for more. Many called for more practical curriculum, especially one with more courses designed to support the business and management aspects of professional practice. The faculty recognizes the latter point and in its present review of the curriculum will be including specific competencies related to those areas. Thus, feedback from all of you is important. It will help us improve our program and, using a trite word, its relevancy to the practical needs of the pharmacy practitioner. Your constructive comments will help keep us from getting too far up in that "ivory tower", and hopefully many of you will further that effort by becoming preceptors in the Professional Experience Program. I and the faculty look forward to your continued participation with the School and its curricular program.

As in the past, the Student Committee on Drug Abuse Education has continued to provide a variety of services to the community. SCODAE has increased its involvement in the training of drug abuse counselors and teachers. For the third year SCODAE put on the Teacher's Symposium on Drug Abuse. However, this year teachers were able to receive continuing education credits for attending the newly expanded two day program. Our non-emergency drug abuse information service is gaining increasing utilization by the community at large. SCODAE is looking to move into other areas of drug education, and with the continued support of students we will be able to continue to provide this valuable service to the community.

The University of Maryland's Sigma Chapter of Kappa Psi Pharmaceutical Fraternity was very busy this year with many professional and social activities. The brothers sponsored three blood pressure screenings, a diabetes screening, the School of Pharmacy's blood drive, and helped with inventory control at a local free clinic. This year's pledge class sponsored a kidney disease awareness program and organ donor drive.

Social events included the annual fall rush and initiation of eleven new members. Sigma sent the brothers to the annual Province III Convention in South Carolina. Other activities included the Orioles opening day ball game and a spaghetti dinner with the Maryland Graduate Chapter of Kappa Psi.

SPECIAL EVENTS

FALL PICNIC

Can't you cook any faster Deb?

PHARMACY OLYMPICS

This year Rho Chi sponsored the First Annual Pharmacy Olympics. Featured were team and individual abilities in such pharmacy skills as counting, pouring, emulsion making, and label typing. The top event of the day was a Rat Race sponsored by Rho Chi and the Pharmacology Department faculty. Teams were composed of students, faculty, and several thoroughbred white rats. For those who really developed an appetite from the fierce competition there was a wide selection of baked goods on sale. In short, there was something for everyone.

You have probably passed our building many times during your three years at Pharmacy School but may never have realized what goes on inside. The Kelly Memorial Building is the home of the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association. Some of the services that M.Ph.A. offers to members are job placement, insurance programs (including Blue Cross/Blue Shield), professional publications, help with employee/employer relations, and help with answers that come up in your professional practice. M.Ph.A. is a natural stepping stone after S.A.Ph.A. and has a lower dues rate for newly graduated pharmacists. Finally, M.Ph.A. has lent its support to the newly formed Maryland Commission for Women in Pharmacy. The Kelly Building and its resources are always open to you. Feel free to stop by for a visit, use our services, or just for a cup of coffee. Remember this is your Association.
